

Non-refundable Deposit and Payments

Deposit to hold a dog and any payments made towards the dog's purchase are non-refundable. Meaning regardless of the reason to not purchase or to cancel the purchase no refund will be made, no exceptions. Deposit and payments are considered a commitment to the purchase. At time of commitment the puppy/dog is reserved solely for the committer and no one else. Should that commitment be broken the deposit and any payments made towards are acknowledged as fees for care, holding and housing. Deciding to not purchase the dog cancels the purchase agreement and the dog is immediately listed for resale. If the purchaser changes their mind regarding the cancellation and the dog is still available with no pending interest, commitments or deposits, then he/she may resume where they left off. Should the dog be a puppy then there will be a purchase reinstatement fee of an additional $50 due at time of recommitment. This form provides proof of no refund available. Our Nonrefundable term is clearly stated and can be found online and in the purchaser's puppy packet.

Possible reasons to cancel purchase may include but are not limited to:

The nonrefundable clause is clearly stated and easily accessible on our ads, websites, contracts, and agreements. There is no exception for a refund. All sales are nonrefundable. On each receipt "nonrefundable" is clearly written as well as with a signature of the purchaser/depositor. By making any form of deposit and/or payment the purchaser is aware and agrees to the terms for non-refundable deposits, payments and accounts. Purchaser's signature (aka committer's) is not necessary to the terms. All purchasers are subject to the non-refundable terms regardless of a signature.
